A MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

Dear Colleague,

It is my honor to invite you to attend the 27th Annual Contemporary Issues in Obstetrics and Gynecology conference, an annual event hosted by the UTHSC Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. The five day conference, not only is set in picturesque Sandestin, Florida, great for a family getaway, but it is filled with the latest information needed to respond to the ever-changing OB/GYN practice arena.

My team and I have planned a very interactive and stimulating program for all attendees, including hands-on obstetric and gynecology sessions addressing emerging issues and emergency situations only adequately addressed through simulation. We will also explore topics such as Pelvic reconstruction and Labor Management: Reinventing the Labor Curve during the conference.

Whether you have attended for more than 10 years, which many of our participants have, or you will be a first time attendee, you will find that the Contemporary Issues in Obstetrics and Gynecology conference provides you with a myriad of resources that you can use within your practice and will increase your knowledge regarding clinical topics that are developing as a result of the changing healthcare paradigm we are facing.

We are excited to present this meeting again and look forward to seeing you in Sandestin!

Sincerely,

Giancarlo Mari, M.D.
